

RMIT response to questions from The Australian:

We have an established Conflict of Interest policy and process, which requires RMIT employees to identify, declare and manage any actual, perceived or potential conflicts of interest. We're unable to publicly disclose personal information relating to any members of our academic staff.